STUCK ON THE SLUGGERS.

The Freedom of Cuttybunk Is Offered

Corbett and Jackson. New Bedford, Mass., Feb. 15 - The Stundard this afternoon says that it is learned that rich men who frequent the rock bound little island of Cuttyhunk, have resolved to have the fight between Corbett and Jaskson come off there if money is an object to the principals. Certain parties have been empowered to meet any offer made by others and "go them one better,

The authorities of Gosnold, the town which embraces the island, are said to be favorable to the project which, as it is becoming known, is creating great excitement in sporting circles in this city. As visionary as the scheme may sound, those who are most interested seem to have no doubt that it can be successfully carried out.

SITUATION AT PLYMOUTH.

The Continual Fall of Rock Interferes with the Work of Rescuing the Buried Miners.

WILKES-BAHRS, Feb. 15 - There are to new facts regarding the terrible accident at the Gaylord mine in Plymouth since yesterday. The rescuing party are vigorously pushing the work self of every opportunity to strike of trying to reach the thirteen eninterfered with the right of females. 'The time has come,' he said, "when we need the help of women in public men at work are greatly hindred in their progress through the continued fall of rock and coal. Up to this evening very little of the debris has been handled, though reports are circulated that they have penetrated through 400 feet of solid coal, which is not true.

A plan was adopted tonight by the nine officials to enter the No 4 workings of the Delaware and Hudson Coal company adjoining. If they can reach the end of the gangway in this mine where a huge door connects with the Gaylord workings, it is probable that the rescuing party may proceed to a point within thirty feet of where the men are supposed to be, and should the air course not be choked up with debris from previous falls, they may find the men within the next two days

To say the least the work of resense party is attended with the utmost danger. The Gaylord mine has been queezing on more than one occasion oday and a number of falls have again occured. The situation as far as can be ascertained from miners who know these workings, is anything but en-ouraging. Another rescuing party consisting of 00 men was formed tonight. They at once went to work on what is known as the old mogutain opening and it is irmly believed that these men in this particular place will make better headway through the fall than the men working on the lower end. Another fall took place tonight and six of the rescuing party barely escaped being killed. Superintendent Picton of the mine, whose son is one of the entombed men, became prostrated today and his life is said to be in danger. The new resoning party is reported o be making big headway, but there are no hopes of finding the men alive The Gaylord mine is rained and can never be operated in the future.

DEATH OF AN ANARCHIST.

Martial Bourdin Horribly Mangled by Explosives Carried in His Pocket. LONDON, Feb. 15 -A loud explosion was heard just after nightfall by the keepers of Greenwich park, about six miles from London bridge. A hasty search led to the discovery of a man mutilated and groaning with pain on the hilltop near the observatory. His legs were shattered. One arm had been blown from his body and he had peen almost completely disemboweled. As soon as he became conscious of the keepers' presence he begged them to help him or kill him. He became insensible within five minutes and ten minutes after being carried to the Seaman's hospital he died. English and French papers found in the man's pockets showed that he was Martial Bourdin, a foreign anarchist. A pe-culier powder in a package which ne had carried with him was not recognized by the police and it has been sent to government experts for anivsis.

A hurried investigation of Bourdin's life in London goes to show that he was a member of a dangerous anarchist conspiracy, whose full details can bs known only after careful police work. He and his colleagues frequented the notorious Autonomis club in Grafton street, Tottenham Court road, and there, it is supposed, they hatched the plot which Bourdin was to help execute by his contemplated act in Greenwich. Detectives have been watching the club hous: constantly as well as a nearby house in Windmill street, where many of the anarchist refugees have lodged. The occupants of this house have been recently in constant communication with anarchists on the continent. The lodgers in the Windmill street house apparently discovered a few days ago that they were watched, and several of them vanished on the morning after the explosion under the hotel

Terminus. This afternoon a detective saw Bourdin and another lodger enter the house together and come out half an hour later. The unidentified lodger hurried off alone, and Bourdin took a train for Greenwich. He carried with him undoubtedly the explosives which caused his death. Bourdin's exact intention in making his trip to Greenwich has not been ascer

The papers in his pockets give no clue to it, although the first inference was that he int-nded to blow up the observatory, but was prevented from doing so by the premature explosion. Bourdin apparently was about 25 years His clothes were of fine texture and he had thirteen pounds sterling in gold in his pockets.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15 - The special agents of the treasury department for the district of New England believe they have unearthed a gigantic scheme which has been worked with success to defraud the United States government. Rio Janeiro, Feb. 15 —On Tuesday night last a launch belonging to the American cruser Newark took ashore from that vessel several sailors who calling for $12.50, payable on the first had been attacked by yellow fever.
The men were taken to the yellow fever Fabruary in each year. Across the pospital and the saunch returned to the Newark. On her way back her ourse took her close to the anchorage of the merchant fleet. Lying among the merchantmen was the insurgent steamer Marte. The latter fired three shots at the launch, but all three were

The American warships are easily disinguished from those belonging to the other warships and from other boats and the coal company has been kent that ply about the harbor.

After landing her sick sailors, the Newark, under orders of Rear Admiral Benham, sailed for Montevideo where the will be disinfected. It is the opinon of those who know what sort of a clace this bay is during the yellow ever season that the fleet of warships ought to anchor off Copacabanca, outside the harbor.
